TERMS OF REFERENCE

MULTI-FUNCTIONAL PRINTER

I. BACKGROUND

The purchase of multifunctional printer was recognized as essential to the performance of daily tasks of the NPC employees. It is used for reproducing important records and files for submission and compliance to oversight agencies and inter-office requirements. In accordance with the data under the Administrative Services Division, it is more advantageous for the Commission to procure its own high volume multifunctional printers than to avail rental services. Since there were months that the number of copies produced in the copier is below to the number of copies equivalent to the monthly rental fee.

In addition to that, rental services is required to undergo procurement annually, and in consideration that the bulk of reproduction of file records as compliance to oversight agencies is in every 1st qtr. of the year, there is a tendency that the services of the printer will be interrupted which may have additional cost to the Commission since we have to procure emergency copier services outside. Also, the multifunctional printer also has the ability to retain copies of files that was reproduced so there is a tendency that if it's under rental services once it was pulled out from the Commission some of the copies of the file will be retained in the machine which may result into Data Privacy Breach.

So as not to interrupt the provision of printing services and to preserve the confidentiality of files, documents, and records of the National Privacy Commission, the procurement of multifunctional printer is hereby necessary for general use of the NPC personnel for high volume printing and copying either in colored and Black&white format.

II. OBJECTIVES

To procure high volume Multi-Functional Printers in response to the general requirements of the NPC employees in the performance of their daily tasks and compliance to oversight agencies.
